

Resilience of Domestic Violence and How it Affects the Family Dynamic

By: Becca Mott
SOC200.101
Dr. Jacob

Domestic Violence is a Big Issue in Society

- Symptoms in mental health
- Risk for physical and psychological behavior
- Symptoms
 - Depression
 - Suicide attempts
 - Post traumatic disorder
 - Feeling of emotionally cut-off from society
- Families with Domestic Violence
 - 80% of families have children
 - 37% of the children are abused or witnessing abuse

Symptoms of Victims of Domestic Violence

- Domestic Violence is and epidemic that impacts from every community
 - Age, race, economic status, educational background, ect..
- Domestic Violence is when someone
 - Willfullying intimates, physical assault, battery, sexual assault, or abusive behavior
- Victims of psychological, physical, and sexual intimate partner violence
 - More likely to use healthcare services and develop a range of mental health problems compared to individuals who don't experience this type of violence
- Biggest effects of domestic violence
 - depression , anxiety, low self-esteem, reduce self-concept, and trauma
 - modern global competence in the absence of internalizing and externalizing problems

Childhood Risk of Being Exposed to Domestic Violence

- Childhood exposure to a mother's intimate partner violence creates
 - family fear, control and powerlessness that cannot be understood by a child's way of coping with such hardships
- Risk of internalizing and externalizing behavior problems
 - Children many times are removed from there family due to drug issues
 - premature birth, conduct problems in their behavior, parental mental illness or substance abuse, physical abuse and lastly homelessness and poverty
 - Child's developmental stage is at risk when talking about external factors
 - Social and physical environment, social peer relationship skills is not there when they start school
 - 5 times more likely to commit suicide attempts in adulthood
 - Higher percentage of having problems with there nervous system

Economic Problems among Victims

- Economic abuse is when the perpetrator utilizes behavior that “controls a woman's ability to acquire, use and maintain economic resources, thus threatening her economic security and potential for self-sufficiency.” (Stylianou 2018)
- Victims that are experiencing domestic violence are often in low income with little variability in socioeconomic status
 - it’s hard for the victim to get away from the perpetrator because they need their perpetrators' help with finances
- Abusers control the victims’ economic situations by preventing them from accessing available resources
 - denying access to money, dictating their use of transportation, putting the victim in an allowance, and monitoring the money that is being spent
- sabotage the victims by saying things like they can’t maintain employment and discouraging them to get an education, training or even employment

Resilience in Women who Experienced Domestic Violence

- Resilience
 - ability to bounce back after a traumatic experience like domestic violence
 - composite of functioning in social, emotional, cognitive, and behavioral domains to overcome the boundaries and trauma that the individual had gone through
- Ways to become Resilient
 - rehabilitative program utilizing creative journal art therapy to help which reduces their mental health
 - Helps improve self-esteem and knowing what a healthy relationship really is

Known For Sure

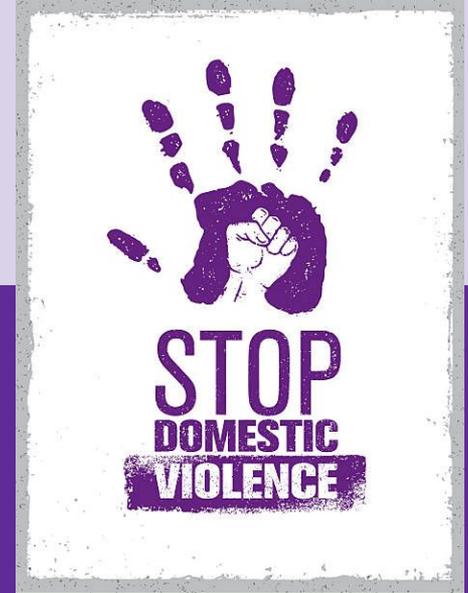

- Big issue in society
- Risk for physical and psychological health
- Negative symptoms occur
- Affects not only victim but family also
- Affects their economics
- Some have resilience to overcome this hardship but many individuals don't

Pursue in Future Research

- Finding and making more support systems for this individuals
- A way to find out about these families going through this faster
- What are key clues to dealing with an individual to know they might be in a abusive relationship

Importance of Understanding Domestic Violence

- Domestic violence is a huge problem in our society and has effects not only on the individual that is being abused by the family members that are exposed to this violence as well
- important to see how much the economic view has on the individual as well and how the perpetrator doing the violence wants to be controlled and even the individual's economics and what they choose to do
- STOP Domestic Violence!!

References

Anderson, K. M., & Bang, E. (2012). Assessing PTSD and resilience for females who during childhood were exposed to domestic violence. Child & Family Social Work, 17(1), 55–65.

Gewirtz, A., & Edleson, J. (2007). Young Children's Exposure to Intimate Partner Violence: Towards a Developmental Risk and Resilience Framework for Research and Intervention. Journal of Family Violence, 22(3), 151–163.

Hines, L. (2015). Children's Coping with Family Violence: Policy and Service Recommendations. Child & Adolescent Social Work Journal, 32(2), 109-119.

Ikonomopoulos, J., Cavazos-Vela, J., Vela, P., Sanchez, M., Schmidt, C., & Catchings, C. V. (2017). Evaluating the Effects of Creative Journal Arts Therapy for Survivors of Domestic Violence. Journal of Creativity in Mental Health, 12(4), 496–512.

McDonald, S., Corona, R., Maternick, A., Ascione, F., Williams, J., & Graham-Bermann, S. (2016). Children's Exposure to Intimate Partner Violence and their Social, School, and Activities Competence: Latent Profiles and Correlates. Journal of Family Violence, 31(7), 849–864.

McDonald, S., Graham-Bermann, S., Maternick, A., Ascione, F., & Williams, J. (2016). Patterns of Adjustment among Children Exposed to Intimate Partner Violence: a Person-Centered Approach. Journal of Child & Adolescent Trauma, 9(2), 137–152.

Stylianou, A. M. (2018). Economic Abuse Experiences and Depressive Symptoms among Victims of Intimate Partner Violence. Journal of Family Violence, 33(6), 381–392.

Tsirigotis, K., & Łuczak, J. (2018). Resilience in Women who Experience Domestic Violence. Psychiatric Quarterly, 89(1), 201–211.